South Bay water, sewer rates hiked

By DEAN JONES

SOUTH BAY City Commissioners approved Tuesday night a 26 per cent increase in what minimum water and sewer users will pay as of October, with further rate increases due for next year that will reflect a 51.6 per cent increase.

City financial consultant Don Diller said the increase in water and fee will be required to pay off a $5 million bond issue this year on water and sewer and a further $69.5 million water issue next year.

The rate increases, approved by the commission after some discussion, will hike water rates per 1,000 gallons from $1.25 to $1.62, on sewer from 85 cents per 1,000 gallons to $1.74 and on the ready-to-serve charge from $7.95 to $9.30.

The total minimum charge, which reflects the ready-to-serve charge and the first 1,000 gallons of water and sewer, is now $10.05 per month. As of Oct. 1, the charge will increase to $12.66. As of Oct. 1, 1981, the rate will increase again to $15.69.

Diller said that, assuming the city's sale of 114.2 million gallons each of water and sewer this year remains constant, the rate charges will reflect an increase in revenues next year of $48,832, up from $166,778 this year to $215,610 next year.

When Vice-Mayor Ray Sullivan, who was filling in for the absent Mayor Don Tanner, expressed concern about the ready-to-serve charge for larger users, Diller replied he had worked out the rates according to requirements by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Diller explained that any break given larger users, such as Days Inn, which is already using the city over the ready-to-serve charge, would mean other water users in the city would have to pay more, in essence subsidizing the large users.

"The debt service has to be paid off," Diller said, "whether Days Inn's room are full or not, whether they're using the water or not. It's the large users who put such a demand on the city's water system, not the smaller individual residences and they're going to have to pay."

When Commissioner Sammy Rogers asked Diller if the sewer rate increase, at 105 per cent, is so much higher than water because most of the bond issue is being used to improve the sewer system, Diller said it was because the sewer plant has been operated on a shoestring.

Acting City Manager Lomax Harrelle commented that the new plant will require two new operators and will represent a large increase in operating costs.

The commissioners also took action on two other water and sewer-related matters when they approved a resolution agreeing to cooperate with Belle Glade in the Regional 201 Plan and to authorize advertisement for bids to repair the city's elevated water tank.

The commissioners agreed to the resolution agreeing to participate in the 201 Wastewater Treatment Plan in response to a request made by Belle Glade several months ago.

Belle Glade made the request because U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials in Atlanta said the entire 201 Plan would be stalled and Belle Glade couldn't proceed with needed improvement until South Bay signed the agreement.

The recommended disposal system for both cities is that a deep well be drilled near Belle Glade and that both cities get rid of effluent (treated sewage)

Lake Shore Shield and H-O combine

The Lake Shore Shield was combined this week with the Herald-Observer as the first of several steps to bring readers of both newspapers a better, more comprehensive product according to General Manager Kim Allen.

Editorial copy and advertising which has traditionally gone into the Shield is being incorporated throughout the Herald-Observer as of this week and Shield Editor Alma Henry has been added to the H-O staff.

Miss Henry has been editor of the Shield since the newspaper was born three years and seven months ago in an effort at that time to bring a news package into western Palm Beach County specifically aimed at the large population Black residents.

"Today's combination of the Shield and the Herald-Observer," Allen said, "is part of an overall plan to bring the best possible news package to all the residents of the Glades area in Palm Beach County."

"It is only one of several exciting moves planned for the near future," he said. "We hope our readers will think them as exciting as we do."

Belle Glade budget up

By DEAN JONES

BELLE GLADE—City Commissioners will meet this weekend for their annual budget retreat, facing a proposed budget 10 per cent higher than last year's city budget.

In a budget address City Manager Robert Sanders presented to the commission Monday night, Sanders said the recommended budget for fiscal year 1980-81 will total $6,451,810 and incorporates proposed increases in garbage and trash rates, occupational license fees and rates at the municipal marina.

Sanders said a 7.5 per cent increase has been proposed for city employees and is asking the commission to approve one new position, a code enforcement officer, and the elimination of 14 positions.

"The budget," he said, "is in the past, places emphasis on providing a high level of service to the citizens of Belle Glade in the most efficient and effective manner possible. The revenue projections have been conservatively made while estimates of expenditures have been made more liberally."

Sanders said the proposed general fund budget will be $4.5 million, an increase of 12 per cent over this year, and the water and sewer fund will be $1.9 million, a 6 per cent increase, resulting in an overall 10 per cent increase.

The commission is already considering a proposed 44 per cent increase in water and sewer rates, although they're attempting to find some way of lessening the increase.

The city manager said one of the main considerations in the general fund this year is the TRIM bill passed by the state legislature, which demands property assessments be made at 100 per cent instead of 65 per cent for tax purposes.

To offset the TRIM (Truth in Millage) bill, Sanders noted the citizens of the state will be required to vote on a constitutional amendment which would eventually hike home-stead exemption from the current $5,000 to $25,000.

Sanders said that if the amendment is approved by the people, income from the taxable value of property in the city would decrease from $86.6 million to $75.6 million.

He proposed the commission set the property tax income at $715,000, about the same as for this year. "At this level," he said, "the millage would be reduced from the present 8.6 mills to 8.2 if the amendment passes, the millage would be set at 9.4 mills to generate the $715,000."

Sanders said the city will also suffer a major revenue loss in state revenue sharing, receiving $686,570 for 80-81, compared with $780,000 in 79-80, a 12 per cent reduction.

To offset these losses, Sanders recommended:

Airport Park officially opened

BELLE GLADE—State, county and city officials, officially opened Airport Park Saturday with a ribbon cutting dedication ceremony.

City Manager Robert Sanders, serving as Master of Ceremony at the dedication told approximately 100 on-lookers at the 18 acre park located just north of the city on U.S. 441. "Airport Park was the result of hard work put forth by the Belle Glade City Commission, city employees, the state and county."

"Being dedicated here today is one of the finest parks you shall find anywhere in the state of Florida," said Sanders.

Sanders said the city acquired the land from the state with a lease agreement with Glades Correctional Institution.

Sanders said Commissioner Tom Altman made approximately three trips to the state capitol to negotiate with the state for the 14 acres land lease. The city added four more acres to make the park.

The park, which includes two softball fields, four tennis courts, two racquet ball courts, picnic area and a Par course was constructed at a cost of approximately $325,000, with a $50,000 grant from the Palm Beach County Commission. Sanders said 75 percent of the work on the park was done by city employees which kept the cost down considerable.

State Rep. Ray Liberti (D-78) told the gathering the City of Belle Glade proved a park could be built without waiting on the state.

PBC Commissioner Bill Bailey said he was glad the county could be of assistance, and wish the county could have donated more than $50,000 to the project.

J.C. Ford, the Palm Beach County Heart Association, the donors of the equipment for the Par course said the course in Belle Glade was one of the finest in the county.

Williams Raiston, Commander of the American Legion Post #20 presented the City with an American Flag. Sanders said Post 20 also

CRACKER

BY DEAN JONES

By H.G. Duncan
During the long day of the Nazis, Adolf Hitler managed to exterminate five to six million human beings in his attempts to purify the "master race."

As our troops rolled across Germany in the waning days of World War II, soldiers who thought they were insured to further shock were confronted with the horrors of the extermination camps they liberated. The dead and the dying they saw there would never forget.

General Patton forced the German citizens from nearby towns to tour one camp to see the carnage wrought by their leader's psychotic dream.

I wonder if General Patton was alive today, if he could find some means of giving the American people a tour to see the carnage we have caused by our super-intellectually rationalized abortion acceptance.

I have heard all the arguments favoring abortion and I cringe in horror at what I hear.

It is said a fetus is not a human being. What is it? A cat?

It is said life does not begin until the third month, the second month, the eighth month, 20th day and the 11th hour.

By what measuring devices are we capable of this decision? By what sheer, insane audacity do we assume the authority to decide when life begins?

I am just a poor, old, simple-minded tank driver shocked at what I see in this civilian society I so recently entered. Therefore, the intellectual of the world can laugh my argument into silence. But this I believe:

Life starts with conception when the male sperm cell fertilizes the female egg. This is the beginning of a miracle the scientists can tell us exactly how happens, but have no idea why it happens.

Any voluntary termination of this cell division and growth of the fetus is an interference and ending of God's miracle before its fruition.

I wish we could gather up all the one-half million abortions that will be aborted this year and let the public see those tiny dismembered arms, legs, heads, torsos, and then let someone have the gall to tell us it's not the taking of human life.

Within a year or two the American extermination of its Little Belings will have reached and surpassed the murders of Hitler.

We're no better than the Nazis whose excuses for their crimes sicken us.

There is no argument of the pro-abortion camp which holds water, with the possible exception of abortion to save the life of the mother.

Abortion statistics are revealing. Some one-third of the abortions performed are repeat abortions on the same would-be-mothers.

I am conscious of the spectre of over-population, but killing unborn children is not the correct method Americans should endorse. I favor some form of birth control (and abortion most assuredly is not a form of birth control).

Certainly the rhythm method is a preferred one, but since most of us are a little off-beat, perhaps other means are justified. One means I strongly favor (and would have no objection to federally funding) is voluntary sterilization. It's a copout, but humans are weak.

I also favor compulsory sterilization of those too pleasure oriented and too lazy or too stupid to practice some form of birth control.

Some cens us!

Either the Area Planning Board's estimate of what the populations of Belle Glade and Pahokee, figures that have themselves been criticized as too low, are off or 7,476 citizens of those two cities have disappeared.

So says the Census Bureau.
Or could it be that the first "working figures" compiled by the Census Bureau are themselves suspect?

Heaven forbid!
It's a known fact, so says the census officials, that 90 percent of the people responded to the April 1 mailout of census forms, or at least that's the pre-census estimate.

Of course, there is one other possibility. If you haven't received your census form yet or been contacted by a enumerator, as is the case of a number of people who could name, you don't exist.

Who says we have to wait for 1984 before non-persons, double-think and rewritten history becomes a reality?

Jerry Thomas

The Glades area, as indeed all of Florida, can only suffer with the death of a man such as Jerry Thomas.

Thomas was one of those extraordinary men who not only understand business and finances enough to make an impact on an entire county's economy, he made an impact on the entire state in the Florida legislature as have few politicians before or since and, as he was fond of pointing out, he even made a dent in overspending in Washington.

He did more in any one of several areas than the vast majority of men, or women, could have accomplished in twice his lifetime of 61 years, marking up achievement after achievement in what were victories personally and for the people of the United States, Florida, Palm Beach County and the Glades.

What's more, Thomas did it with a flair that was unforgettable. He won't be remembered solely for his accomplishments because it's impossible to chalk up integrity, foresight and friendship and assign them dates of achievement and statute numbers.

Those of us fortunate enough to have heard him speak at formal occasions or rub elbows with him at more informal affairs such as barbecues will remember Jerry Thomas for his sense of history, his intelligence, charm, wit and down-home cameraderie.

Those who never made his personal acquaintance can't know the loss that represents.

So long, Jerry, we'll miss you.

have anything against anyone practicing any kind of religion they want to. I get curious sometimes, when someone thinks he's got it all nailed down, about what he thinks that is surrounding it, but that's all.

But when you start getting action like I've seen lately, when someone tells me that if I don't vote a certain way, I'm gonna burn in hell because I've sinned, I start getting upset.

And that's the way I read evangelists such as the Rev. Jerry Falwell, who goes a step further and says it's a sin not to register to vote, that he has a divine mandate to walk into Congress, not to mention the Republican National Convention, to tell the country's lawmakers how to vote on what issues and that anyone who disagrees with his interpretation of the scriptures, "believe the Bible is not the Word of God."

That's scary.

I don't mean it's scary because Falwell or any other clergyman expresses his or her political views. That's their right.

But when they start mixing politics and religion to the point they're telling some glib person he or she is damned for eternity if they don't support a given policy, they're meddling.

Fortunately, any person with the reasoning power of a half-dad clam can see where Falwell and his ilk, whether they're conservative, such as Falwell's Moral Majority, Inc., or liberal, such as the National Council of Churches, are coming from.

Unfortunately, there are obviously a lot of Americans out there who don't have the reasoning power of a half-dad clam.

They're the ones who believe when a high-powered hunter declares that he's the personal emissary of God.

They're the ones who believe when God's own emissary tells them they'll vote as he tells them on abortion, on national defense, on the ERA, on tax laws, on whatever, or they're hellbound.

They're the ones who'll take Falwell's hit list to the polls to defeat people like Birch Bayh.

Not that I have any brief for Bayh but his list disturbs me, no matter who draws "em up."

They're the ones who'll believe him without question when Falwell makes the flat statement, when he's attempting to justify his position on a strong national defense, that "Jesus was not a sinner."

"Jesus was not a sinner. I was not a pacifist." Well, I'm for a strong national defense too but I wonder, if Falwell be right, what Jesus meant when he told his disciples to turn the other cheek.

They're the ones who'll believe without questioning when Falwell says the difference between him and the National Council of Churches, aside from political viewpoints, is that the Council spokesmen don't believe the Bible is the Word of God, while he does.

They're the ones who believe, without question, when Falwell says sex education books amount to Soviet propaganda. I realize the Soviets have a history of claiming all kinds of inventions as being the result of Russian but I hadn't heard them claim they invented the existing manufacturing process for babies.

And they're the type, if not the ones, who'll accept Falwell's as the infallible emissary of God and the sole head of his church and then turn around and talk about the dangers of Roman Catholicism and a pope that meddles in American politics. And some of them, could probably be found in the ranks of the people who are concerned about the "world-wide Jewish" (or Negro, or whatever) conspiracy. Sorta like another guy that turned the world upside down while he was using some Falwellian rhetoric...or is it the other way around?...in 1938 in Germany.

Most of all, they're the kind who keep Falwell and his kind from becoming just another bad joke.

They're the ones who scare me.

Alpha program to move into Belle Glade Elementary

BELLE GLADE—The Alpha drug abuse prevention program started in March at the Lake Shore Elementary School will be transferred to the Belle Glade Elementary School next term.

Designed to help youngsters in the eight-to-12 age group with developmental problems that can lead to drug and alcohol abuse in their teens, the Alpha program enlists the aid of parents and teachers with the children.

Funded with state money, the program is conducted by the Community Mental Health Center in cooperation with the Palm Beach County School Board.

Director of the program is John Asberry, who has expressed hope that community leaders including ministers and others "who are really concerned with problems affecting the quality of life for children" will participate.

Alpha objectives, as set up by the State Drug Abuse Office are to improve students' behavior at school and home; improve their mathematics and reading achievement; help them emotionally and socially, and help them to learn how to live with each other.

Those recommended for the program are disruptive students subsequently tested for academic skills and social behavior, according to Asberry.

After screening, a group of no more than 20 students is assigned to spend three days a week at the Alpha Center, housed within the targeted school, and the other two days in the classroom.

The program operates on basic behavior management techniques, positive reinforcement for appropriate behavior and discipline that involves students' determining consequences for inappropriate behavior.

While focusing on behavior adaptation, students are taught basic courses in math and reading on an individualized basis, arts and crafts, and physical education.

The classes are coupled with individual and group counseling and other affective group activities, Asberry said.

At the same time, parents are also urged to participate in weekly education classes or in family counseling. An evaluation of the Lake Shore program, Asberry said, indicated that students' behavioral problems in school seemed to reflect their home environment. The majority of the students enrolled in the Alpha Program from March until June lived in the Fifth Street area, he said.

"This area is characterized by heavy drug traffic and prostitution," said Asberry. "It is not uncommon for these students to see alcohol and drugs on the street or... being offered to minors."

Commenting further on the evaluation, Asberry said, "It was found that 75 percent of the students enrolled in the Alpha Program lived within the Fifth Street area" in rundown rooming houses with toilets and cooking facilities outside... the living quarters.

"Many resided in dwellings with as many as seven people in one room, some in shanty style shacks which are infested with rats, roaches, spiders, and in some instances, snakes."

According to Asberry, "Resistance is important to the development of children because it determines to a great degree, the quality of life that the child will experience."

Of those involved with the program, 95 percent showed improvement, Asberry said, evidenced by their higher academic test results and their social behavior both at home and in the classroom at the end of the 12 weeks.

The program is also used as "an avenue for educating parents to remove themselves from the conditions of welfare such as: illiteracy, drug abuse, poor housing, unemployment, prostitution and the lackadaisical attitudes about children's education and poor home environment," Asberry explained.

R.H. Fitzgerald, principal of Lake Shore Elementary, commenting on the program said, "We were able to get more parents involved in the school program—counselors and teachers visiting parents and several conferences were held concerning their children after school."

"The most valuable aspect of this program is improving the achievement levels of students and helping them to solve or improve their behavioral problems," he said.

Except for follow-up counseling of the 18 children who remained in the program at Lake Shore, Alpha will not be continued there this term, Asberry said.

He added, however, that he believes it is imperative that the Alpha model be continued and expanded in the Glades area.

Assisting Asberry at the Belle Glade Elementary Alpha Center will be two counselors, Roslyn Ingram and Annette Harris. Two special education teachers assigned to the program are Carrell Robinson and James Gooden. Jean Smith has been appointed secretary.

Anyone interested in additional information on the Alpha Program may contact Asberry at the Community Mental Health Center, 906-2079, from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. weekdays.

Two months ago the Gilberto Alvarez family of Belle Glade moved into their new ten-room centrally air-conditioned home replete with dish washer and laundry.

When Alvarez received his electric light bill last month it totaled $115 as compared with his neighbors' bills which ranged from $185 to $200.

This month Alvarez will pay for 2,000 kilowatt hours of service after keeping 2800 square feet of floor space cooled during the hottest summer weather and maintaining 80 gallons of hot water constantly for a family of four. Coincidentally, that's the same amount of electricity the family used a year ago when they were living in a house about half the size of their new home.

The secret of Alvarez's success lies in the planning and building of a totally energy-efficient house by today's standards.

A solar collector panel on the rooftop proclaims that the sun is heating the family's supply of water. According to Florida Power and Light Company's estimates, that installation alone could save Alvarez 50-80 percent of the cost of heating hot water.

All of the outside walls of the home contain styrofoam insulation and the attic space is Fiberglass insulated. The windows are 50 percent reflecting glass. And a thermostat timer controls the central air conditioner - keeping the temperature at 75 degrees when the family is at home and active and at 80 degrees at other times.

An "oversize handler" on the four-ton air-conditioning unit spreads the cool air more efficiently and will permit Alvarez to expand the house in the future without having to replace the unit with a larger one.

Alvarez estimates that including these energy-saving features in his building plans added about $3,000 to the overall cost.

"But I look for the savings to pay me back in five years," says Alvarez, estimating that his electric light bills will run at about $50 less a month or $600 in each year.

Glades residents planning to build new homes, Alvarez's experience could be timely but for others whose homes were built before energy-saving was a major factor in coping with monthly electric light bills, how many of these dollar-saver features are possible?

Almost all of them are economically feasible, a survey of Belle Glade building supply dealers would indicate. The exception would most likely be the addition of styrofoam insulation in existing outside walls but that, too, may become less costly in the future with the advent of insulating foam.

The immediate problem for a homeowner is in knowing what energy-saving features can be installed that would result in savings sufficient to offset the costs involved.

According to FP&L district manager Dale Stapp, the power company is already offering to make "energy checks" of customers' homes.

A description of what an energy audit involves is included in bills being sent out now, he says, but, in brief, it is an offer to conduct a thorough investigation of a house by a team of FP&L energy conservation experts who then submit recommendations to the homeowner. There is a $15 charge for the service.

According to Stapp, the audits will first be available to the largest users in the residential-rate category who request them.

But what can a homeowner do meanwhile?

Following up on some of the energy-saving features in the Alvarez's house, the Herald-Observer contacted various suppliers in the area.

A solar water heating system installation costs in the neighborhood of $1500 and part of the cost is refundable through government incentive rebates and tax credits.

Using FP&L figures, a family of four spends an average $15 each month to heat water, using about 3000 KWH. With solar heat, the savings could amount to 70 percent each month, adding up to about $126 a year.

If all the Americans who suffer from kinky backs were laid end-to-end would there be anyone left standing?

And if all those laid out end-to-end were head-to-head, the topic of conversation would be comparing backaches: mine gets me right here.

Supposedly all of us back-achers are suffering the ill effects of walking upright with a chassis designed for four-foot walking. So would anybody like to join my movement back to all fours? Him Tarzan. Her Jane. Me and you, Cheeta.

Now you take my back, and right now I'd pay you to take it. Ever since Saturday I've been stiff-walking around like Mrs. Frankenstein in the last month of awaiting the blessed event of a little Frankenstein.

My center of gravity has shifted to accommodate a vertebrae which has stopped out of line. And if I have you bewildered by mixed metaphors

For more specific information on the various types of systems, names of contractors, costs and rebates, FP&L refers prospective buyers to the Florida Solar Energy Center, 300 State Road 401, Cape Canaveral, FL 32920; or the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center, POB 1607, Rockville, MD 20860. Information brochures are also available at FP&L offices.

The Glades area distributor for insulation materials is Hinkler Materials Corp. in Belle Glade. Talking with Ken Martin and Rick Stutsman there, we learned that Fiberglass insulation rolls range in price from $83.12 to $310 per thousand square feet depending on the width and thickness.

The thickness also involves the R-factor, "R" being the measure of insulation performance. The higher the R-factor, the greater the amount of insulation or "thermal resistance."

In attic crawl spaces, the insulation is merely rolled out and no stapling is needed, Martin told us. Where insulation is needed under the flooring, as in stilt houses, the edges of the rolls are flanged to provide an easy stapling surface, he pointed out.

The supply company also stocks styrofoam wall insulation sheets which are easily installed during construction but not feasible in existing walls.

"I'd need to be sure I was going to stay in a house a long time before I did over the interior walls," said Martin. Instead, he said, he would recommend doubling the attic insulation.

Although a liquid styrofoam installation has come on the market which can be blown into wall spaces, Martin said it's not yet available locally. Also he cautioned anyone planning to buy insulating material to make certain it's non-flammable.

"Some have fiberglass in them but the other material, the so-called wool, will burn."

The cost of fiberglass insulation for 1500 square feet or the roof area of a 30x50 house would come to $236.

"In a year's time anyone would get that back in savings on air-conditioning costs," Martin estimated. Energy-saving credits are also available to taxpayers who insulate their homes.

For information on "non-reflecting glass" window panes we went to two sources: Brooker's Glass Co. and L.K. Sands who sells and installs reflective film for covering windows.

Brooker's install Solarcool window glass which deflects the sun's rays and screens out the ultraviolet rays - a disaster for houseplants but a boon to people comfort.

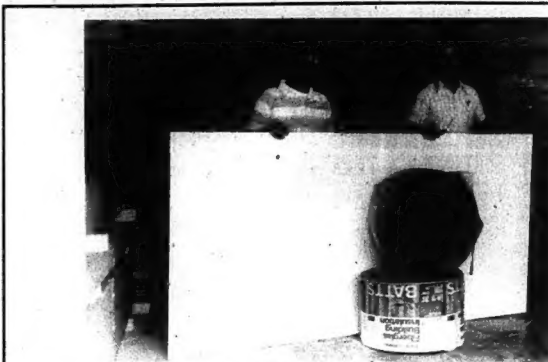

Talking with manager Gil Brooker, we learned the cost of a one-eighth-inch thick awning window pane is $4.50 plus installation costs which run $15 for the first window and $3 for each additional.

Most of the installations, Brooker admitted, are either in homes being built or in replacing windows that have been broken. But the benefits of the non-reflecting glass surface were evident to both the hand and eye. A window pane in the full glare of the sun was only comfortably warm to the hand. The slight tint to the glass eliminated any of the sun's glare inside the room.

The alternative to replacing entire windows in a home could be the miller film covering available from Sands, who says that in nine years he's been in the business, he "doesn't know of one dissatisfied customer."

The film is available either as transparent or with a reflecting surface that can't be seen through from the outside.

And for those with dexterity, covering the windows can be a do-it-yourself job, Sands said.

Bargain items could describe the styrofoam panels and fiberglass rolls, both valuable insulators for homes of families trying to conserve energy and reduce utility bills. Experts on the subject are Ken Martin, left, and Rick Stutsman, right.

Staff photos by Ailsa Dewing

Estimating the cost for installing the film generally, however, became too involved because the type of film preferred and the number of windows are significant factors.

For homeowners not planning extensive renovations at the moment - or waiting for the FP&L energy audit team - Steve Weeks at Seminole Supply Co. offered two energy-saving suggestions: ceiling fans either in lieu of air-conditioning or to increase the efficiency of spreading the cooled air, and timers for water heater thermostats.

For anyone interest in knowing what it is they're doing that's costing so much money at the power and light store, FP&L has a selection of brochures on display in their offices - everything from estimating the kilowatt hours used by an electric toothbrush to meter-reading and tracking down any energy-greedy appliances.

The collector on the roof of the Gil Alvarez home is just a clue to the energy efficiency features built into the new house.

Notions & Sundries

Taking the sizzle out of summer 'can be costly whether the place you're trying to keep your cool is in the house or in the car.

With the trend toward serving yourself at the gas station, experts are warning that the cooling systems in cars may suffer catastrophic problems from going unchecked month-after-month.

Self-serve customers would be wise and money ahead to stave off cooling system troubles by making routine checks. Here's a list of checkpoints for do-it-yourselfers of the most common trouble spots:

1. Coolant level. Be sure coolant is clean, at the proper level and that the mixture is at least 50 - 50. If you have had to dilute the mix with water to replace lost anti-freeze, be sure that an equal amount of anti-freeze is replaced as soon as possible. (Caution: Do not remove the radiator cap when the engine is hot).

2. Drive Belts. These are critical parts of not only the cooling system but also electrical, power steering and air conditioning systems. Be sure they are in good condition and properly adjusted.

3. Hoses. Good hose condition is essential to a tight system. Be sure hoses, connections and clamps are tight and the hoses are in good condition.

4. Radiator pressure cap. The cap permits the cooling system to operate under pressure, thereby raising the boiling point of the coolant. If the cap is not airtight, pressure drops and coolant may be lost. A visual check of the pressure cap will not necessarily determine whether or not it is in good condition. Have it checked by a service dealer who has a pressure tester.

5. Thermostat. To check the thermostat, it is necessary to remove it. Most do-it-yourselfers play it safe and install a new thermostat once the old one is removed. Checking it is simple, however. Suspend the thermostat and a thermometer with a range to 220 degrees Fahrenheit in a pan of water and antifreeze/coolant solution on a hot stove. Note the temperature at which it begins to open. Check this against the open/close temperature range on the thermostat. If it does not open and close at the proper temperature, replace it.

6. Fan Clutch. Many motorists do not realize that many late model cars have a second thermostat - located on the face of the fan clutch on which the fan blades are mounted. When the fan clutch loses its silicone fluid or when the bi-metal switch becomes insulated and fails to respond to temperature changes, low speed over-heating can result. A quick do-it-yourself check is of Artoo Deetoo. And then there's the squeak. Not in my back. In my voice. My backbone's connected to a live nerve which is wired into my voicebox. And when I tilt my eyes light up too.

I could accept all this pain and suffering if I'd brought it on lifting bales and toting barges with some sort of idiotic gay abandon. But, in truth, I was felled by a vicious length of St. Augustine grass. Less than a worthy opponent.

So why am I telling you all this instead of telling a doctor?

Because if all the Americans who have kinky backs were laid end-to-end head-to-head, very few of us would do anything except talk about it.

It's about the only thing we can do that doesn't hurt.

Cullowhee students

Thomas and Robert Tai of Coral Point and Carmen Salvatore of Pahokee have returned from attending "The Cullowhee Experience," a summer enrichment program for intellectually gifted students held at Western Carolina University.

The four-week program included academic, cultural, social and recreational activities to gifted students in grades five through 10.

Students selected have individual IQ scores of 130 or better whose achievement records indicate a two-grade placement level above their age grouping.

Thomas Tai, a fifth grade student, and Robert Tai, a ninth grader, reside at 214 Second St., Coral Point.

Carmen Salvatore is a fifth grade student and resides at 101 Salvatore Lane.

Glades residents can learn how to prepare a garden site and get valuable tips on growing vegetables at a slide-illustrated lecture Friday, Aug. 1, at the Glades Office Building auditorium.

Gene Joyner, urban horticulturist with the Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service, will give the lecture at 9:30 a.m.

In addition, pamphlets on all phases of vegetable gardening will be available.

From 11 a.m. until noon Joyner will conduct a plant clinic at the agricultural office. Residents are invited to bring in problems they're having with landscape plants, shrubs, or trees. Anyone unable to attend the clinic may call in, 996-5511, extension 33, and Joyner will attempt to answer questions over the phone.

Both the clinic and lecture are free.

Room Air-Conditioners. Through-the-wall units should be installed fairly high to provide more even and efficient cooling. Don't block the airflow with drapes or furniture and keep air filters clean.

Start a unit in the morning hours before the heat of the day becomes too intense.

Central Air. If you have central air conditioning, keep the thermostat at a steady setting, no lower than 78 degrees. Set the fan at high speed except during humid weather when a low setting will remove more moisture. Filters should be cleaned or replaced monthly during hot weather.

Keeping draperies drawn during the daytime will help too in keeping the heat out and the cool in.

Belle Glade State of the City message presented

BELLE GLADE — City Manager Robert R. Sanders will be presenting to the city commission during this weekend's budget sessions, as he has for the past three years, a state of the city address. As the Herald-Observer has done on each of those occasions, we are again printing that address in full. It is always beneficial, as one prepares to consider the new budget, to review what was accomplished with the present budget. The State of the City message attempts to do that as well as present a list of major tasks for the future.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS
With ten months of fiscal year 79-80 over, most of the capital outlay budgeted has been expended. The present budget emphasized maintaining the existing level of services and did not include any major capital improvements, with the exception of completing Airport Park. However, the City continued to provide a high level of services and did not increase the property tax for the third straight year.

While there is a multitude of smaller accomplishments made in each department, many were of a nature that improved the efficiency of the departments in delivering services or reacting to the citizens requests. Among the more notable accomplishments were:

- GENERAL GOVERNMENT

- Completed base work for tennis courts, basketball courts, and racquetball courts at Airport Park.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT
• Lakeshore Phase III contract let.
• S.W. 5th Street project contract let.
• Renovated five homes utilizing local contractors.
• Renovated four homes in-house.
• Replaces six homes.

CONSIDERATION FOR THE FUTURE
Below are listed some of the major areas to consider for future action:
• Implementation of the 201 Plan.
• Implementation of the Water Improvement Project.

STATE OF THE CITY
The City, like all other units of local government, must contend with the dual liabilities of decreasing revenues and increasing expenditures. For instance, the cost to the City for gasoline has doubled in the last fourteen months and utility costs have increased over 20%. Practically all supplies required to operate the City services have likewise increased significantly.

Despite this situation, the City remains in relatively good financial condition. The City's charge for many services, such as water and sewer, has had to be increased in the past few years but property taxes have been decreased or remained at the same level.

The City strives to maintain a cash reserve in its various funds and so far has managed to do so. However, these reserves have been relied on, to some extent, to offset the dual problem mentioned above. The City must be aware of these dwindling reserve funds and take steps to replenish them.

The past few years have seen the City complete several major capital improvements. The new fire station, the new City Hall, the new municipal building leased to the Chamber, Lakeshore Park, and Airport Park all represent tax dollars well spent on projects that will benefit the citizens of Belle Glade for many years. There are few cities of this size that can compare with such facilities. The community is, and should be, proud of these accomplishments. The City Commission has acted with foresight and timeliness in completing these projects.

The City still has major capital improvement facing it in the next two or three years, mainly in the areas of water and wastewater. The proposed 11.2 million dollar bond issue will address primarily the water improvements and the federally assisted 201 Plan will address the wastewater improvements.

The City will never be able to maintain a responsible, viable local government can sit back and declare "we do not have any problems." But a responsible government can continue to foresee problems and strive to prepare for them and meet them in as prudent and efficient manner as possible. While the City of Belle Glade is in a relatively decent condition, it cannot relax in its efforts to improve its financial, physical, social and cultural status.

CHARGE-A-CALL, Southern Bell's new public phones for callers not planning to pay for a long distance call with cash, gets a try-out by County Commissioner Bill Bailey as Bob White, group manager of the phone company, assists. The first three coinless public phones are now operating in the Glades area, White said.

Charge-A-Calls offered

BELLE GLADE — Pay telephones without coin boxes to meet the needs of the "cashless society" are moving into the Glades area.

According to B.C. White, Southern Bell Telephone Co. group manager, three of the coinless public telephones called "charge-a-calls," are now operating in the area with 15 to 20 more to be installed by the end of the year.

The Charge-a-call public phone is designed for making long distance calls which are to be paid by credit card, billed to another number, or made as collect calls.

The new phones are suited for such locations as airports, hotel and motel lobbies, ports and truck stops — wherever high volume of long distance calls not requiring cash deposits are likely to be made, according to White.

Calls made from Charge-a-call phones do not have coin boxes. The caller places the call and an operator assists with making arrangements for payment.

The Charge-a-call phone saves us money," White said. "The set itself is cheaper to manufacture since there is no need for a heavily armored set to protect the coins or the complex mechanical coin counting system. We can even use a standard telephone to offer this service in the locations where they are useful."

There will always be a need for the coin telephone," said White. "The real growth market in the next decade will be in meeting the needs of the business traveler. It is this mobile group that a Charge-a-call and similar public telephone services will have their greatest application."

Approximately 1,100 coinless public telephones in operation in Florida, today. The ultimate goal, according to White, is to have about 20 percent of the Company's 53,000 public telephones coinless in Florida.

The future holds even more improvements for the coinless phone concept. With the introductions of Auto Billed Calling (ABC) in the mid-1980's, telephone credit card customers will have a personal identification number similar to the kind used in automatic bank teller machines. Entering this number on the telephone's touch-tone pad will initiate automatic verification and billing of the intended call. Such a system adds speed and convenience for the user.

professional and occupational fees, a step authorized this year by the state legislature and increase the city has made since the city's fees are $25 and would be raised to $30, increasing the income from $38,000 to $75,000.

A 40 per cent increase in garbage and trash rates in 80-81 and another 10 per cent increase in 81-82 to the estimated $225,000 in tipping fees the city will have to pay for using the solid waste transfer station now under construction at the city landfill by the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority.

This would increase the monthly garbage and trash pickup fees for residential dwellings from $5.25 to $7.35 in October and to $8.10 in October 1981.

He said these rates will generate an additional $186,000 in 80-81 and $35,100 in 81-82.

As has been the case for the past several years, the Police Department represents the largest single drain on the budget, with a total of $1.2 million. Underwood said that $818,000 in salaries alone, $100,000 more than the total estimated revenue from property taxes.

Sanders said that of the 14 major departments within the city, three anticipate a decrease or no increase in expenditures for the coming year, four have requested increases of 10 per cent or less, three have estimated increases in expenditures of 10 per cent or more.

coming from their respective treatment plants) be injected deep below the surface of the earth.

South Bay at first wanted no part of such a plan and the commissioners were told they would be under no pressure to participate once work is completed at the sewer plant because there would be no effluent which would have to be pumped into surface waters.

The goal of the 201 Plan is that by 1983, all surface waters in the state are to be free of sewer effluent and clean enough for recreation and wildlife.

Belle Glade. City Manager Robert Sanders appeared before the commission Tuesday night urging them to act favorably on the resolution prepared by Harrelle and City Attorney James Gann.

Gann stipulated in the resolution that, while the city agrees to the deep well injection plan, "if and when, the existing and proposed percolation-evaporation land disposal system is demonstrated to the City of South Bay to be in non-conformance," with wastewater disposal methods, such an agreement wouldn't penalize the city's ability to pay off water and sewer debts and would have to be approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, FmHA and any other bondholders.

Harrelle assured the commissioners they shouldn't have to participate in the system for another 10 years, minimum, and probably not for 15-20 years.

Sanders said he had an appointment for this afternoon with EPA officials in Atlanta and urged the commissioners to, "keep your fingers crossed," that the officials would approve the resolution.

In the commission's final action concerning water and sewer, the commission approved a request to advertise for bids to clean and repair the city's water tower.

Harrelle told the commissioners the job wouldn't begin until the new million gallon ground storage tank is put on line but he wanted to advertise for bids now to set the stage for the work as soon as possible.

He estimated the job, which will include repairing leaks, sandblasting and painting, installing a new water gauge on the tower and other work, would cost $20,000. He said the project would be paid for out of Repair and Replacement funds.

South Bay to get garbage trucks

SOUTH BAY — The City Commission took another giant step Tuesday night toward collecting its own garbage when it authorized advertisement for bids to buy two garbage trucks and a number of large garbage containers.

Facing the charges of tipping fees as a new transfer station in Belle Glade by October, which Acting City Manager Lomas Harrelle said he and others felt was already being told by School Superintendent Thomas Mills that the school board will replace the school board, because of county-wide budget problems.

Harrelle told the commissioners he had attended a meeting of the Glades Budget and Policy Advisory Committee of the Palm Beach County Solid Waste Authority last week and had been told one knew just how much garbage is being collected from South Bay.

Harrelle said he has also asked W.L. Cunningham of South Florida Sanitation and Cunningham could only estimate the tonnage.

He said the fees being charged by the city to dispose of its garbage at the county landfill in Pahokee has been $1 per cubic yard, which is being increased to $1.5 a ton at the transfer station, which will use solid waste from Belle Glade, South Bay and the unincorporated areas of the western part of the county.

Harrelle said the county group had 1984 and now has a membership of more than 800. He said the PBCHA is the third largest chapter in the nation, over which the national association boasts more than 25,000 members.

"Anyone," Lawder said, "who remembers the 1974 recession knows how the economic crisis is reflected by the building industry. Building permits issued dropped from 28,000 in 1972 to 4,200 in 1975."

He said one of the most important jobs of the county chapter is dealing with government regulations, citing benefits to the

The commission had already agreed to accept the school property with an eye toward using it for recreation. Harrelle had also handed out to the commissioners a plan for disposing of the building itself and asked them to approve it next week.

Considered the possibility, the request of Commissioner Sam Rogers, to begin injecting fluorides into the city's drinking water.

"Unfortunately," Rogers said, "I have a month of cavities but my dentist (Dr. William Davis) told me the kids in Belle Glade have fewer cavities than the kids in South Bay or Pahokee."

"This isn't something for us," Rogers said. "This is for the future of South Bay, our children." He said his dentist had told him before the commissioners to testify on behalf of fluoridized water.

City Attorney James Gann suggested that the commission, if they want to pursue the matter after hearing from the dentist, put the matter to the citizens in the form of a referendum, not because of any law governing the matter but because it has been controversial in the past.

The funds for the project are to come from the HUD Block Grant Program and Harvin has filed a Notice of Intent to Request Release of Funds and a Notice of Funding of No Significant Effect.

The latter notice stipulates that there will be no adverse environmental impact. The first notice lets HUD know the city intends to ask for the money on Aug. 7. He said the city's objections will be maintained except on grounds that Mayor W.R. Kirk won't let the person who signed the notice or that information in the environmental review process had been omitted.

Builders recruit here

BELLE GLADE — A healthy business climate is the aim of a contractors and builders trade association that has started a recruiting drive to populate a new Glades chapter, according to officials.

Lon Lawder and Bob Came of the Palm Beach County Contractors and Home Builders Association told members the Belle Glade Rotary Club Tuesday they now have five members and are looking for 25-30 members for a chapter in the Pahokee-Belle Glade-South Bay area.

Lawder said the county group had 1984 and now has a membership of more than 800. He said the PBCHA is the third largest chapter in the nation, over which the national association boasts more than 25,000 members.

City seeks grant

BELLE GLADE — Community Development Director Roman Harvin filed two documents this week with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to do work in the Southwest section of town worth an estimated $12 million.

Avenue E to G.

Glades athletes bring home six medals

BELLE GLADE — Local athletes brought home gold, silver and bronze medals Saturday from the first annual Sunshine State Games track and field events held in Gainesville.

Jay Seider, who has been coaching athletes in the track and field events for the past several weeks at Glades Central High School, said he carried a total of nine Glades area athletes, who had qualified a week earlier at Twin Lakes High School during elimination events, to Gainesville for the games.

Seider said medals were won in all three divisions; divided into one gold and one bronze in the open division, one silver in the senior division and one bronze medal in the junior division.

"It was a real nice experience," Seider said of the games. "We drove up Friday and they had opening ceremonies Saturday, just like the Olympics, with a speech by Governor Bob Graham and Walter McCoey, the Olympic runner, ran in with a torch and lit a flame. Then they released balloons."

The only bad thing about it was that it was held indoors because of the weather," Seider said, "and it rained all morning Saturday and it was hot and humid that afternoon."

Seider said there was a total of about 2,000 athletes taking part in the track and field events.

"It was a rewarding experience," Seider said, "for the kids who did go."

Seider said the gold medal was awarded to Rosa Wilkerson, one of Seider's athletes who ran as part of the 400 meter girls relay team in the open division.

Sheila Nix, the reigning girls' state Class AAA shotput champion and a member of the Glades Central girls track team, won the silver medal when she placed second in the shotput, although her 42'3 1/2" heave was well under her 44 foot best effort.

Miss Nix was beaten out by the reigning Class AAA champion, who heaved the iron ball 42'3 1/2". Miss Nix also placed sixth in the discus throw with a toss of 108'8".

Seider said Miss Nix would have won a gold medal in the shot with one throw she made of 42'7" but she scratched on that one by stepping over the line.

In the open division, former Glades Central track star Bobby Brecken, now a member of the Miami Dade South Junior College track team, placed third in the 400 meter run with a time of 49.5 seconds. Walter McCoey won that event.

In the junior division, Lake Shore Middle School track star Joseph McCant placed in four different events but won a third place bronze medal in the 400 meter relay event.

McCant also placed fourth in the long jump, being edged out of third place by a quarter of an inch, with a leap of 19'3 1/2". Seider said McCant was fifth in the 100 meter dash with a time of 11.9 seconds and sixth in the 100 meter hurdles. He said he didn't have a time on that event.

The only other Glades area athlete who placed in her events was junior division entrant Dawn Mearns, a member of the Lake Shore Middle School girls track team who placed seventh in the 100 meter dash and eighth in the 300 meter dash.

Seider said he was sure that other medals could have been won by local athletes if they could have gone to the games, which was won by a heave of 59 feet.

"This was the first year though," he said, "and there was a lot of confusion that should be ironed out by next year and a lot of people didn't get the word."

New additions to features program

TALLAHASSEE — Recognizing the importance of eight diverse landscapes throughout the state, the Florida Department of Natural Resources has announced the registration of eight additional to the state's Natural Features Program.

Neely Landrum, director of the Department of Natural Resources, Division of Recreation and Parks, explained that the eight natural features were selected for the outstanding natural qualities each possesses and for the contribution each makes as representative examples of original Florida.

The new registrants are: the Blackwater River (segment) and associated uplands in Santa Rosa County; the Falling Waters sinkholes in Washington County; the Ichetucknee River in Columbia County; Devil's Millhopper in Alachua County; Gold Head Branch Bayou in Clay County; Blue Springs in Volusia County; Highlands Hammock in Highlands County; and Lignumvitae Key in Monroe County.

Landrum said the Natural Features Program was initiated to give recognition to the important and unique landscapes found throughout the state. "By recognizing these features through a registration program, we hope their preservation can be encouraged, thus establishing a living record of the natural history of Florida," Landrum explained.

Glades Intelligence unit funded

TALLAHASSEE—The Florida Council on Criminal Justice today announced a grant award of Department of Justice funds to Mr. Ralph Kirk, mayor of the City of Belle Glade for a project to be implemented by the Belle Glade Police Department.

The $12,544 grant, made up of $12,190 in LEAA funds, $877 in state and $877 in local matching funds, will establish the Glades Intelligence Unit. The unit will consist of law enforcement agencies currently serving the western Palm Beach County and Lake Okechobee area. This includes parts of Hendry, Glades, Martin and Okechobee counties.

In cooperation with State and Federal agencies, the Glades Intelligence Unit will work in gathering, evaluating and the dissemination of vital intelligence information. This, in turn, will be directed toward reducing the flow of illegal narcotics and stolen property through the Glades area. The unit will also identify career criminals operating in the area.

The federal law enforcement funds for this project are administered by the Bureau of Criminal Justice Assistance (BCJA), Division of Public Safety Planning and Assistance, Department of Community Affairs, which serves as staff for the Florida Council on Criminal Justice.

Steps proposed to get better water

BELLE GLADE—The city commission approved two steps Monday night to be taken in an effort to control algae at the city water plant and make the city's water taste and smell better.

Instead of moving directly to the process of filtering water through powdered activated carbon, the commission agreed to the suggestions made by Public Utilities Director Kenneth Retterer.

Retterer said the city's water supply this year has been plagued by a new form of airborne algae that has been causing trouble with the water's taste and odor.

In other business, the commission approved documentation to buy the old St. Peter's Lutheran School and church property on West Canal Street North and lease it to the Glades Area Association of Retarded Citizens with the intent to sell it to ARC when the total rent paid equals the purchase price.

PAHOKEE—The Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Rev. O.W. West, Pastor is planning its annual summer revival, August 4 through 8 nightly at the church.

The Rev. James Allen, of Miami will be the evangelist. Prayer services will begin at 7:30 p.m., and services at 8 p.m.

Hillsboro Canal claims four

BELLE GLADE—The bodies of a man, his wife and two children, who had been missing since Thursday, July 24 when they went fishing, were found over two days this Saturday and Sunday scattered over a mile from where their car nosed into the Hillsboro Canal and they were drowned.

Dead were Charles Beckford, 53, of 519 S.W. Ninth St., his wife, Catherine, 26, their son, Kerry Lee Beckford, 7 months and Thomas Evans Jr., 10. Mrs. Beckford's son from a previous marriage.

Beckford's body was found floating in the canal only minutes before the family was reported missing by his sister-in-law, Pearlene Caldwell Saturday afternoon.

The family wasn't reported missing until after Mrs. Caldwell went to the Beckford home and spoke to another son, Herbert Dent, 7, who had been in summer school classes at the time his parents and brothers' car plunged into Hillsboro Canal near the city landfill.

The bodies of Beckford, his wife and Thomas Evans floated free of the car after it went into the canal. After Beckford was found floating in the canal Saturday afternoon, Thomas was found about 7:30 a.m. Sunday, an hour and a half before the submerged car was located.

The infant was found in the car at 9 a.m. and the body of Mrs. Beckford was found at 1:15 p.m. about 300 yards west of the car. The other two bodies had drifted east.

Revival set

PAHOKEE—The Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Rev. O.W. West, Pastor is planning its annual summer revival, August 4 through 8 nightly at the church.

The Rev. James Allen, of Miami will be the evangelist. Prayer services will begin at 7:30 p.m., and services at 8 p.m.

Two Glades youths win in district Pitch, Hit & Run contest

WEST PALM BEACH—Two Glades area youths won first place in their age divisions in district Pitch, Hit & Run competition held Sunday at Municipal Stadium.

The two winners were Michael McCoy, in the 13-year old division, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.T. McCoy of Belle Glade, and Reann Edmondson, in the 8-year old division, son of Mrs. Hilda Edmondson of Pahokee.

The two boys represented the oldest and youngest age groups admitted to the competition and are now among those who have a chance to compete at the next level, which will be in the state finals.

J.T. McCoy, who is an employee of the Belle Glade Recreation Department, said the best scores compiled in all the districts which make up the Atlanta region, will be run through a computer and those with the best scores will go on to Atlanta.

Michael's score was a total of 379.8 and Reann's was 186.6. The score is compiled by awarding 50 points to each of pitches which hit a target over home plate, the distance, in feet, of the best of three swings with a bat and by points given which are determined by the speed with which a competitor runs around the base line.

The boys are expected to know if they go on to Atlanta by Aug. 8. Should they win there, they'll have a chance to compete in the final event during the World Series.

Pitch, Hit & Run was jointly sponsored locally by Burger King Corporation and the City of Belle Glade's Recreation Department. Nationally, it's sponsored by Burger King and is a major league baseball's answer to football's Punt, Pass & Kick.

Voters registration drive planned

The program will begin at noon with a sampling of foods enjoyed by Australians according to Librarian Phyllis Lilley. A number of films will be shown, including "Australia, the Timeless Land," starting at 1 p.m.

Glades residents who want to register to vote in the upcoming general primary elections on Sept. 9 and Oct. 7, or the Sept. 9 Belle Glade City election have only one week to do so before the registration books close.

EMPHASIS

ENERGY CONSERVATION AND ENERGY RESOURCES... THE PUBLIC'S VIEW

Increasing concern about the energy crisis is evidenced in a recent opinion survey which found that 56% of the American public believes that conservation will have to be an essential element in any coherent national energy strategy. And about three out of every five Americans indicated that they have cut down on driving in response to rising gasoline prices.

This new commitment to conservation to energy resources. People's favorable attitudes toward various forms of energy development (solar, coal, nuclear, etc.) have increased dramatically during the past year.

LET'S AGREE... neither you nor we the "estimated" bills. Sometimes they are necessary... when a meter is inaccurate due to a bad gage, over-reading gage, or what have you. Any difference in actual electricity usage is corrected on the next meter reading... and is adjusted on the bill. Even-stevens.

It seems that everything's going up! Ten years ago, the minerals and chemicals in the human body were worth only 96 cents. Now they're valued at $7.28.

LOOKING FOR A SOLUTION? In the midst of inflation, the energy crisis, social ills, drugs, brings about a sense of frustration. And skepticism. Can we handle the problems of the future? The freedoms that we cherish will survive if the individual is willing to make sacrifices. Our personal, political and economic freedoms are all intertwined and cannot exist alone.

Historian Edward Gibbon wrote of the tendency in ancient Greece to sacrifice individual freedoms so that social institutions could rule society.

In the end, Athenians wanted security more than they wanted freedom. They wanted a comfortable life and they lost it all—security, comfort and freedom. When they finally wanted not to give to society but for society to give to them... when the freedom they wished for most was freedom from responsibility. It was then Athens ceased to be free.

Let us learn from their mistakes.

Church of God dedication held

PAHOKEE — Approximately five hundred persons from the tiny community gathered at the Church of God Sunday in observance of the church's dedicatory ribbon cutting ceremony.

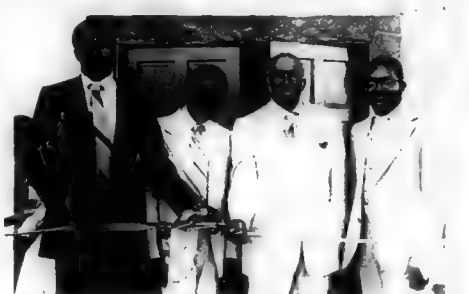

"After four-and half years of constant struggling, the less than 300 members of the Church of God finally completed a seemingly impossible task," said one onlooker. God

The Rev. W.M. Carswell, pastor of the parish and the members of the church built a $100,000 edifice, with a seating capacity of 400, complete with a parsonage and dinner facilities with the church cash assets.

Rev. Sammy Banks, assistant pastor told the crowd, which included the Rev. C.C. Pratt, of Cocoa, the State

Overseer, Rev. J.R. Davis, and Rev. L. Sanders former pastors of the Church of God, and many representatives from Churches of God throughout South Florida, and representatives from churches throughout the members of Church of God we built this beautiful sanctuary without having to go to the bank for a dime."

"Often when the general contractor, Otis Jordan, was ready to continue on the project, we did not have the funds, but when the funds became available he was always there ready to go to work," said Rev. Banks.

Mrs. Ella Mickens, a member of the Church of God said the church was founded in 1928 by Mrs. Maybelle Collier, and nine ministers have served as the church's pastor.

"We have come long ways since Mother Collier. It's a dream come true, and wish to thank the starters of our Church building fund, Mier Collins of the Bedrock Furniture Store, Mrs. Annie B. Daniels, and Mrs. Sylvia B. Waterman."

Rev. Pratt told the delegation, because of the massive undertaking by the Church of God, and Rev. Carswell, the state convention cited the local church at church of the year, and Rev. Carswell as pastor of the year.

The Bible Church of God, Elder Robert Banks, pastor and the Gospel Song Bird paid a musical salute to the congregation and state officials, and the Rev. W.D. Jackson offered the dedication prayer.

KEEPING THE FAITH

by REV. JOEED MCGAHEY

Pray for the peace of Jerusalem: May thy prosper who love you. May peace be within your walls. May prosperity within your palaces." Psalm 122: 6 & 7

"For the Lord has chosen Zion; He has desired it for His habitation. This is My resting place forever; Here I will dwell, for I have desired it." Psalm 132: 13 & 14

"If I forget you, O Jerusalem. May my tongue cleave to the top of my mouth. If I do not remember you, If I do not exalt Jerusalem above my chief joy." Psalm 137: 5 & 6

The most important city in the world is not New York, Washington, D.C., London, or Rome, but Jerusalem. Why? Because it is God's City. It is the place that God picked out to be the center of His activity.

We first read of Jerusalem (Salem) in the Bible in Genesis 14:18 when Abraham was blessed by Melchizedek, king of Salem, about 1900 B.C. It was only a few years later that Abraham carried his son Isaac to Mt. Moriah (Temple Mount in Jerusalem) to sacrifice him, but was kept from doing so by an angel of the Lord. (Gen. 22)

In about 1048 B.C. David captured Jerusalem for the Jews and made it the capital of Israel. His son Solomon, by the direction of God built the Temple on Mt. Moriah in Jerusalem. Actually the Temple Mount is just north of old Salem and the Jebelbete City of Jerusalem.

The Temple was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar in 586 B.C., but was rebuilt about 440 with the return of the Jews from Babylon. This city was fought over again and again and in 70 A.D. was destroyed by the Romans. It was at that time the Temple was laid to rest until this present time. More than 35 times during its nearly 4,000 years of history it has been fought over.

Now, true to Biblical prophecy it is again the capitol of Israel. Even though the Dome of the Rock, (in Moslem Shrine) stands in the place of the ancient temple and is protected by Israel's law, Jerusalem is still God's center of activity.

I was outside its walls Jesus was crucified and arose from the dead and from the Mt. of Olives over looking the Holy City, that Jesus Christ ascended into heaven and it will be to that place He returns.

When one goes there today, you feel the excitement of God's activity. It is not just a matter of being in a city where so much of our Biblical history has taken place, one feels God is doing something.

When I looked at the Old City from the Mt. of Olives for the first time a Moslem Arab pointed out the Dome of the Rock (Eastern Gate) and said with excitement: "that is the gate Jesus will go through when He comes back."

I also knew something else when I stood there that first time God is at work then and now getting ready for that greatest of all future events.

One almost expects to look up or around and see His angels getting things ready. Their presence can be felt and have even been seen.

I know also, that even though I am a citizen of the United States and probably always will be both a citizen and a resident, that going to Jerusalem is going home.

Bethel A.M.E. church attends convention

SOUTH BAY — The New Bethel A.M.E. Church of South Bay stood out like a shining star at the West Miami District Sunday School convention held in Opaoka, July 9 through 11.

Mrs. Linda Williams a member of the youth delegation said the convention was attended by 18 churches from the district.

She said one of the high lights of the convention was the informational forum on Drugs and Alcohol.

Mrs. Evelyn Williams and Mrs. Linda Williams both participated in the discussion forum.

In the R.L.Q. Contest New Bethel was represented by Henry Williams. "Henry played the game like a pro, and won a team trophy," said Mrs. Williams.

In a Oratorical Contest on Friday evening, the eleventh, Miss Williams won first place and was the recipient of a $100 first place award.

Also appearing on the program was Rev. Alvin Jones, pastor of New Bethel. Rev. Jones represented the church with a "dynamic resolution," and Mrs. Williams had the honor of teaching the beginners class at the convention.

The New Bethel A.M.E. Church of South Bay would like the community to know there's always something cooking in the kitchen at BETHEL," said Mrs. Williams. She added, "New Bethel African Methodist Episcopal Church of South Bay is a church of the Spirit, by the Spirit, and for the Spirit."

THE OLD WAY

The old pump handle was the counterpart of our modern water faucet. You simply had to be thirsty enough to want to pump water.

Now ways often bring little that's new. They just make it easier to satisfy our necessities.

But those who spiritually thirst — for souls that are dry, there is no new way. There is no way to pipe the water of a new life into the soul of man.

It isn't difficult to overcome the spiritual drought of our time. But you've got to realize your own thirst for God. And you've got to draw on the deep, refreshing resources where they are. Let the church or synagogue of your choice help you rediscover the old way.

Glades has heart

The 1980 fund-raising campaign for the American Heart Association is now history, record-breaking history. Total income for this year has exceeded $1,600,000.

Palohoe's Heart campaign was a family affair. Bryan P. Croes, Branch Manager of Everglades Federal, headed the business portion of the Palohoe campaign, known as the Commuters and Industry Drive. His wife, Cathy, served as Heart Sunday Chairman. With the help of Canal Point's Heart Sunday Chairman, Mrs. Edward Riddick, Palohoe Canal Point contributed $2,140.

Wayne McKell, President of the Bank of Belle Glade, and Bob White of Southern Bell charged the Belle Glade Commerce and Industry Drive. Business leaders raised $1,100. With dedication and support of Heart Sunday Chairman Mrs. Robert Hooker and her fellow door-to-door collectors, Belle Glade raised a total of $3,408 for the Heart Association.

This is the 11th year Mrs. Billy Rogers has served as the Chairman of the Com-Part of Bella Glade.

Economic Conditioning
If you have central air conditioning, keep the thermostat at a steady setting no lower than 78°F. Depending on where you live, the difference between 72°F and 78°F can save you anywhere from 12% to 47% in cooling costs.

With room air condition- ing, use only the ones in rooms you are occupying at the moment; shut down the others.

When buying air condi- tioners, get sound advice on the condition, capacity, too powerful or too weak a unit will waste energy and money. Clean or replace filters at least once a month during the cooling season. Set the fan at high speed, except in humid weather. A low setting will remove more moisture.

AIR CONDITIONERS
Room air conditioners can certainly help take the size out of summer. And in these days of high energy costs we all need to be sure our appliances are working efficiently without wasting any energy. Here are some suggestions from Whirlpool home economists to help you get the most from your air conditioner: On hot days, start the unit in the morning hours before the heat of day becomes too intense. When installing a through-the-wall unit, place it fairly high to provide more even and efficient cooling. Don't block the airflow with drapes or furniture. Keep the filter clean.

Proper landscaping can also help reduce energy costs for air conditioning. Trees, shrubbery and grass absorb and block heat before getting inside your air conditioner but an easier job of keeping you cool.

SAVE TIME WITH A PORTABLE PUMP
You can get the jump on household projects if you have a pump around the house, workshop, or garage. Hobbyists, gardeners, do-it-yourselfers, car and boat owners and anyone who needs to transfer fluids from one place to another can find a pump pretty practical.

THE MOST POWERFUL COLUMN IN THE PAPER

Boston... More than baked beans!

By JIM JONES

I walked through the lobby of the Lenox Hotel in Boston at 7 a.m. Saturday, July 12, in my white T-shirt, red shorts and jogging shoes.

I pushed my way through the revolving door and broke into a run down Boylston Street to the Boston Common one mile away. It was an exhilarating feeling. The cool air was invigorating and the wide sidewalks were mine.

Twilight dapples the sidewalks as I alone through the trees. Old and new buildings stood side-by-side and it was almost like running back into history. I ran past the Boston Library, Trinity Church, the Hancock Tower and finally reached the Common, a sprawling park, dotted with lakes, lined with walkways, and colored by plots of flowers. A few other joggers were out and they waved as I ran past. Joggers are joggers everywhere. Indeed, Boston is a city of joggers. You'll see them at all hours of day, swarms of them. Boston is the home of one of the greatest marathons in the world. Perhaps many of them have dreams of running in it one day.

That was the start of my visit to Boston, one of the world's truly great cities.

Boston is a wonderful mixture of culture, history, entertainment and charm. I found the heart of the city alive and filled with people and colorful shops, in contrast to some other large cities. Bostonians have their own peculiar way of speaking, but the accent is really no more novel than our own Southern dialect. It is quite intelligible.

Everywhere in Boston political posters are plastered on walls and power poles, calling for everything from preventing the draft to "no nukes" and "no more Vietnam." This political activity has been characteristic of Boston and Massachusetts since its founding.

When the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth to the south, they came to escape religious persecution. Upon getting settled, however, they persecuted all of their neighbors who did not believe as they did. Massachusetts was a trouble-some colony to the British almost from the start.

It was in Boston in 1770 that a gang of young men began protesting the entry on guard in front of the British Barracks. When the Brits came to the aid of the soldier, the mob began pelting the "lobster backs" with rocks and snowballs. The soldiers fired on the mob killing three colonists outright. Two died a few hours later and six were wounded. Paul Revere immortalized this incident with an engraving, known as the Boston Massacre.

Three years later, 50 men disguised as Indians dumped 47 chests of tea into Boston Harbor to protest British taxation. And in 1775, it was Revere and William Dawes who made a midnight ride to warn of the advance of 800 British soldiers, intent on capturing minute men and their munitions.

The battle of Bunker Hill also took place in 1775. But when a Virginian, Gen. George Washington, commanding the Continental Army, drove the British out of Boston in 1776, the town ceased to be a battleground.

It is against this rich background of history that one can lose himself in the city. One of the best ways to see it on foot. The freedom trail is a red-painted line, winding through the wide and narrow streets of Boston to the major points of interest.

Much history can be found in the Granary Burial Grounds on Park Street. This ancient cemetery, dating from 1660, was once the site of a barn, which - after a good harvest - was filled with corn and wheat for the needy. This charitable idea did not work out because rats, mice and weevils helped themselves first. The grounds were also used for making sails for "Old Ironsides" a revolutionary frigate which is still on display in Boston Harbor. It is the city's oldest existing commissioned ship.

Buried on the Granary grounds are John Hancock, Samuel Adams, and Robert Treat Paine, all signers of the Declaration of Independence. Also buried are Paul Revere, and six Massachusetts governors.

Most of the tombstones are one to two inches thick and stand from 12 inches to several feet tall. They were cut from local grey or mottled red slate. The stone was durable, yet easy to carve; its layers split off at a hammer's blow to leave a smooth surface. Mistakes could be easily sanded away.

Many of the thin tombstones remain in excellent condition and are easy to read. "Here lies buried the body of Mr. Stephen Parker who departed this life Oct. 14, 1760, age 74 years," reads one. Adorning the top of this tombstone is a skull with wings on either side. This is, a common decoration. Some have crossed bones over the winged skull.

An exception was the grave of Andrew Weller, who died September of 1790 at the age of 11 months, 14 days. His grave had the portrait of a baby's face, framed by the ever-present wings.

Paul Revere's monument is one of the larger ones. It is about four feet tall, square, and appears to have been painted white. After an exciting life as a patriot and successful entrepreneur, Paul Revere died in 1818 at age 83. In the passage of time, many gravestones have been realigned and tombstones do not necessarily indicate the precise location of a grave.

Near the Frog Pond, the Puritans punished wayward members by placing them in stocks and whippings. The first man to go into the stocks was the carpenter who built them, because he charged too much.

First, robbers and women believed to be witches were hanged from the elms in the park. Even a few people, who committed no other crime than being Quakers, were hanged. There is no hint of this past at the Common today. The park was crowded with people of all ages the day I visited. Youngsters splashed in the Frog Pond, college students and senior citizens napped on the sloping lawns, boy and girls tossed frisbees, kissed and talked. A center of attention was the swan boat rides. The propulsion is supplied by the boat driver, who pedals to turn the paddle wheel. Ben Franklin is reported to have fished the lakes of the Common, but I saw only a long-haired teenager in Brewer Fountain.

I made it a point to visit both the old and new state houses, as Boston is the state capital.

The Old State House, a red brick building capped with a small gold dome, is located on a hill on Congress Street. One end of the building has been converted into a subway entrance, but the other end is a museum. Contained is one of the finest displays of miniature ships you'll find anywhere, clothing worn by John Hancock, and artifacts belonging to Samuel Adams.

Boston's Old State House - built in 1713 - is actually its second. The first, built in 1658, burned in 1711.

The Old State House was used as City Hall and a commercial structure, until its renovation in 1892.

Boston's new state house is located on Beacon Street and is crowned with a large golden dome. A statue of General Hooker stands guard outside on his horse, testimony that the North too has Civil War monuments. Many of Massachusetts' outstanding citizens are honored with plaques on the walls of the statehouse. Charles E. Duryea, inventor of the American automobile in 1892, is one of these. The plaque proclaims that the American auto industry started in Springfield, Mass., that year.

Boston has many more sights of course, including the Old North Church, and Paul Revere's home, but I was intrigued by the combination of the old and the new.

At Copley Square stands the Hancock Building, a 60-story steel-and-glass skyscraper. Mirrored in its windows is the Episcopal Trinity Church, which resembles a European castle as much as anything.

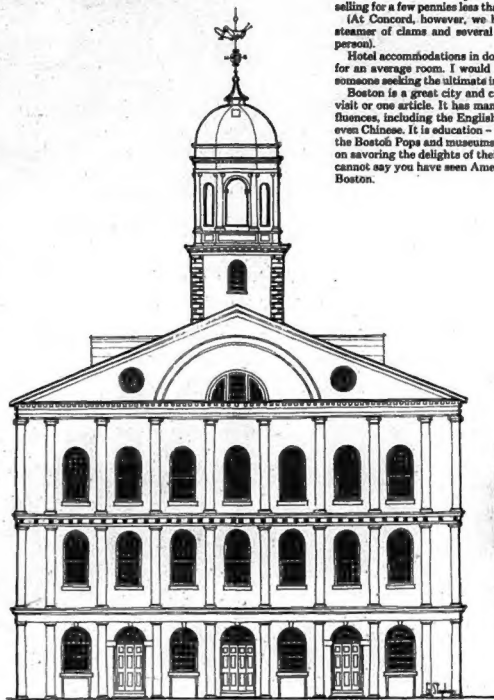

The John Hancock Tower is called a thin rhomboid, covered with a special glass designed by I.M. Pei. The glass is intended to reflect the sky and nearby buildings, creating the illusion of lightness, despite its great bulk. The building has had engineering problems and some panes of glass have been replaced with plywood. During my visit, I saw no plywood, but a Bostonian told me company employees with binoculars look for loosening panes. One had fallen to the street within the past several weeks, she said.

Almost directly across from Copley Center is the Old South Church, built in 1664, and a massive, but beautiful monument, to religious faith.

Boston is famous for its conservative reputation and churches, but it has a secular side too.

In Boston they call Faneuil Hall the cradle of liberty. It was built in 1742 and used as a market house and town hall. For nearly 80 years, the hall was the site of the Boston Town Meeting.

During the decade preceding 1775, no other building assumed a more important role in the American Revolutionary movement than Faneuil Hall. Under the leadership of Samuel Adams and James Otis, the town meeting became the center of the resistance movement against the British.

A PIGEON finds a roost atop the statue of Everett Hale in the Common.

Faneuil Hall

Adjacent to Faneuil Hall is Quincy Mall, featuring blocks of open air pastry shops, fruit stands and souvenir shops. There are open air bars and restaurants and many take a respite under umbrellas at sidewalk cafes.

Local bands provide impromptu entertainment and a policeman rides through on horseback. He asks one youth who has squatted with a tray of trinkets to move on, but on the whole the crowd thronging the mall is happy, well behaved, and enjoying the feeling of being part of a friendly group.

One can also find record and book stores which take up two or three floors in a building and in which almost any type of a publication can be found. Though Boston's prices for lodging and food can be high, bargains can be found in the book and record stores. Many hard-bound books sell for $1 and many albums can be found for less than $4.

Boston is a maritime city and famous for its lobster. I ate at the Half Shell, a Boylston Street restaurant which I had been told has reasonable prices and good food. Lobster was selling for a few pennies less than $14 that evening.

(At Concord, however, we had a lobster dinner with a steamer of clams and several drinks for less than $10 a person.)

Hotel accommodations in downtown will cost $29 to $60 for an average room. I would say the sky is the limit for someone seeking the ultimate in luxurious surroundings.

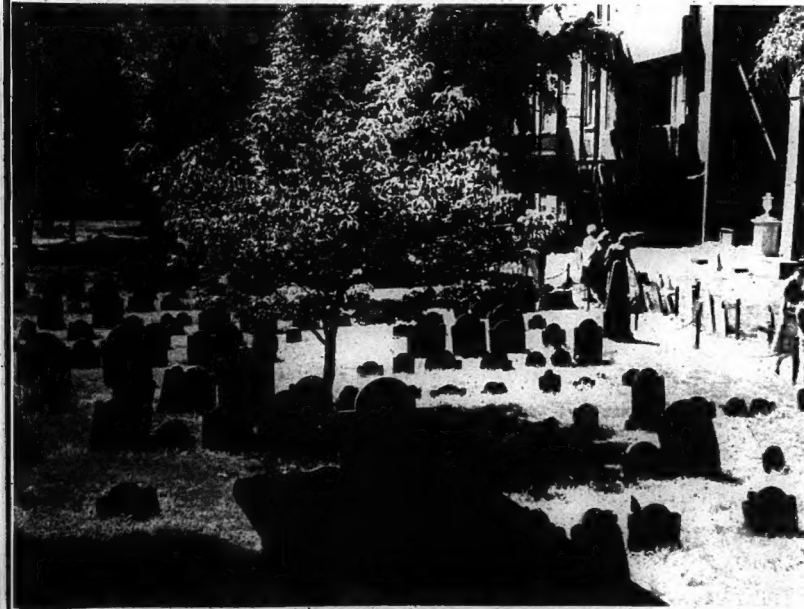

Boston is a great city and cannot be summed up in one visit or one article. It has many parts components and influences, including the English puritan, Irish, Italian, and even Chinese. It is education - Harvard and MIT, culture - the Boston Pops and museums, history and a people intent on savoring the delights of their city. It is a city alive. You cannot say you have seen America until you have been to Boston.

THE OLD SOUTH Church was built in 1664.

IN THE GRANARY Burial Grounds are interred many of Massachusetts' governors as well as Paul Revere and three Declaration of Independence signers.

AGING hippies have been known to take a dip in Brewer Fountain. This young couple, however, was just taking in the scenery with their baby.
